

HONOR TO NATION'S DEAD; BIG FUNERAL PAGEANT

Magnificent Pomp and Ceremony at Washington Tomorrow Over the Remains of the Lamented and Dearly Beloved President, Wm. McKinley.

ALL COUNTRIES TO RENDER HOMAGE

Funeral Cortège on the Road to Washington from Buffalo Today--Body Will Lie in State in the Capital Rotunda--A Grand Procession.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—The remains of McKinley this morning were taken aboard a special funeral train and started for Washington. All night long a guard of soldiers and sailors watched beside the dead. The train which is carrying the body to Washington is in the care of the conductor that carried the presidential party to San Francisco recently. A pilot engine preceded the funeral train by fifteen minutes to see that the track is clear.

Mrs. McKinley Wept Bitterly
Thousands of people were gathered in the vicinity of Milburn house at six. At seven thirty-five Mrs. McKinley came out, leaning on the arm of Abner McKinley and Mr. Lightfoot of the White House corps. She was in deep mourning and heavily veiled. With a firm stride she walked down to the carriage, showing no signs of a collapse.

Fifty thousand people with heads bared and bowed, were around the depot when the six carriages bearing the funeral party arrived.

On alighting from the carriages Mrs. McKinley showed the first signs of weakening. She wept bitterly and walked unsteadily. It was necessary for Dr. Rixey to put his arm about her to hold her up. She was placed on the train at once and the peculiar feeling that death would soon relieve her of her pain and loneliness swept over the crowd.

Body Carried by Marines
The president's body was carried from the city hall to the waiting hearse by six marines at seven fifty. Thousands of people thronged the streets in front of the building with bared heads. The National Guard band played "Nearer My God to Thee."

Slowly and with measured steps the escort fell into line and the march to the depot began. The escort consisted of one company of regulars, two companies of National guardsmen, a company of marines, a detail of sailors and a squad of mounted police.

Covered With a Flag
The body was placed upon the train immediately upon the arrival at the depot. It was placed in the rear of the car on a raised catafalque in plain view of the outside. The casket was covered with the American flag and a single wreath of flowers.

The starting of the train was as quiet as possible. Not a bell was rung or whistle blown. With slow easy motion the engine got under headway and all that was mortal of McKinley started on its journey to the last resting place.

TO HONOR NATION'S DEAD

Most Magnificent Pomp and Ceremony Ever Seen at Washington
Washington, Sept. 16.—The funeral pageant in Washington tomorrow will be magnificent in solemnity. Men of prominence in all the walks of life will form part of the escort of the remains of the dead president from his late home in the executive mansion to the capital building, where in the house of representatives Mr. McKinley first came into national prominence.

50,000 Will Be in Line
It is expected that fully 50,000 will be in line and that thousands from all parts of the country who can get here in time will view the pageant along the line of march.

PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR

To the Citizens of Janesville:

Believing that it is the desire, as it is the duty, of every citizen of Janesville to pay all possible respect to the memory of the late President, and feeling that as citizens of a Republic we should unite in expressing our sorrow at the loss of the foremost citizen of that Republic, I suggest that Thursday, the 19th inst. be set aside as a day of mourning. That on that day after 12 o'clock noon, all shops and places of business be closed and that the citizens of Janesville gather in some public place and with appropriate services express their sorrow.

In order that necessary arrangements may be made and all confusion be avoided, I appoint the following citizens as a committee, and request that they meet at the Council Chamber at 10 A. M. Tuesday, the 17th inst.:

HON. O. F. NOWLAN. HON. W. G. WHEELER. HON. H. RICHARDSON.
DEAN MCGINNITY. DR. J. B. WHITING. MR. J. W. MCINTYRE.
REV. GEO. DUNBAR. REV. W. A. HALL. MR. P. J. MOUTAT.

VICTOR P. RICHARDSON, Mayor.

WALWORTH COUNTY FAIR OPENS; PROMISES TO ECLIPSE ALL OTHERS

Number of Entries Received During the Past Week Far Ahead of Anything Ever Known--Program of Races the Best Ever Known.

Elkhorn, Wis., Sept. 16.—The Walworth county fair which opens here tomorrow for its usual four days' exhibition, promises to eclipse all previous records. This city has already begun to take on an unwonted activity during the fair. Strangers are arriving in town on every train. Stock, machinery and other exhibits are coming by the carload. The officers of the fair are very busy assigning space, receiving entries and arranging exhibits.

The fair of 1901 has already proved itself a record-breaker. In that the number of entries received during the past week is far ahead of anything ever before experienced.

The stock exhibits will be especially good. The new cattle and sheep barns will be crowded to their utmost capacity. The list of entries is by far the largest ever known here. The stake races, one for each day, have proven very popular, and each one is well filled. Wednesday's program starts with a 2:13 pace, stake purse $1,500. There are fourteen entries, horses coming from California, Colorado and Minnesota, as well as many from nearer home. The 2:35 trot with purse of $400 has eighteen entries, including one each by Thomas Dunbar and E. T. Gunz of Milwaukee, and Isaac Stephenson of Marquette.

With good weather with which there is now every prospect, the Walworth county fair will be the "best ever." Special trains will be run on the Milwaukee and Northwestern railroads.

BURDEN OF SORROW FOR MRS. M'KINLEY

Widow of the President Is Hysterical, and It Is Feared She Cannot Stand the Ordeal.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—Mrs. McKinley has broken down. Grave fears are expressed concerning her. She was today in a state of hysterical collapse and, though she was taken to Washington with the funeral train, the most serious misgivings are entertained by her attendants.

It was about nine o'clock on Friday night when Mrs. McKinley last saw her beloved husband and bade him a final farewell. She was soon afterward put to bed, and sedatives administered for the purpose of producing sleep produced the desired effect. Mrs. McKinley was asleep when the president died in a fitful, troubled sleep. This morbid consciousness faded through those dreary hours of night.

But the end came. At 7 o'clock in the morning the sedatives lost their power and she who had retired a wife awoke a widow. She was told the news, but she did not appear fully to realize that her husband was dead. She still spoke of him as living, asked how he passed the night and begged that she might be taken to him.

Little by little the dread truth dawned upon her, and at length her pleading became too insistent to be longer resisted. Mrs. McWilliams and Mrs. Barber led her into the room where the president lay—the room in which he had died and left her there. What took place no one knows, will never know. For an hour the pair who had marched through life hand in hand, whose tender love had become celebrated in song and story and the traditions of American manhood and womanhood, were alone together.

At length the watchers heard no more cries and appeals for recognition, no more caresses and lamentations. They opened the door and found the unhappy woman in a swoon by her husband's side.

PROCLAMATION BY GOV. LA FOLLETTE

State Capital at Madison To Be Draped for Thirty Days, as a Tribute to McKinley.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 16.—Governor La Follette late Saturday afternoon issued a proclamation on the death of President McKinley. After eulogizing the illustrious dead, the governor recommends that at such hour as may be set apart for the funeral the people of the state assemble in their respective houses of worship or other convenient places and unite in memorial services fitting the mournful occasion and to implore the mercy of God on the afflicted nation. The governor also recommends that all public buildings be suitably draped in mourning, as he ordered the capitol building to be this morning; that flags be displayed at half-mast until the funeral, and that all of the offices of the various departments of the state government be closed on that day.

In accordance with the governor's orders General Bryant had the four principal entrances of the state-house draped with white and black mourning bunting. The flag will be at half-mast until the funeral. The display of flags at half mast on the buildings here today has been more general than for years.

FUNERAL SERVICES AT WASHINGTON

Body of the Late President Will Lie in State in the Capital Rotunda.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The following official statement making important changes in the plans for the funeral services over the remains of President McKinley in this city was given to the press:

In compliance with the earnest wishes of Mrs. McKinley that the body of her husband shall rest in her home at Canton Wednesday night, the following changes in the obsequies of the late president will be made:

Funeral services in the rotunda of the capitol will be held Tuesday morning on the arrival of the escort which will accompany the remains from the white house.

The body of the late president will lie in state in the rotunda for the remainder of Tuesday and will be escorted to the railroad station Tuesday evening. The funeral train will leave Washington at or about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening and thus will arrive at Canton during the day Wednesday.

SPOONER'S TRIBUTE TO WM. M'KINLEY

Popular Estimate Rightly Places Him in Same Rank with Washington and Lincoln.

Senator John C. Spooner has been heard from. In answer to a telegram from the Milwaukee Sentinel he writes from Bethlehem, N. H. He was profoundly moved when he learned of the shooting and death of McKinley. He says in part:

"In my view, the popular estimate rightly places him with Washington and Lincoln as one of our three greatest and most beloved presidents. Each was president during an epoch marking period, and each seemed to have been particularly intended for his period, its exigencies, and demands."

"He was a man of rare power and a natural leader of men."

"The beauty of soul with which he bore himself from the assault which gave him his death wound until his last breath revealed to the whole world the strength and dignity and sweetness of his character. In the shock and horror of the first moment he lost neither his calm nor his consideration. He pleaded against unlawful violence to the wretch who had stricken him, and sought to protect from shock the loving woman who had so long been the object of his tender care, and when the fight for life had gone against him, with undisturbed serenity and unflinching faith in the God whom he had loved and worshipped all his life, he died as he had lived, a Christian gentleman, a knight without fear and without reproach."

FIRES ALL LIGHTED READY FOR WORK

End of Great Steel Strike Brought About Peaceably—A few Are Dissatisfied

Pittsburg, Sept. 16.—The fires have been lighted for a general resumption of all mills made by the steel strike, yet all are not yet started, because some of the men are in ill humor at the settlement and refuse to return to work.

McKeesport, Sept. 16.—At the National Tube Works plant this morning both night and day men reported for work. There are a few malcontents who protest against the settlement but they are so much in the minority as to have no influence in preventing the resumption of work. There is not the slightest disorder.

THOUSANDS MOURN AT BIER; TRIBUTE TO THE CHIEF

Buffalo Pays Its Last Respects to the Martyred President, While His Body Lies in State--Multitude Thronged the City Hall for Hours.

SOLEMN SERVICE AT HOUSE OF DEATH

Funeral Cortège Passes Through Solid Walls of Living Humanity, Bareheaded and Grief-Stricken, with Rain Falling in Sheets—90,000 View the Remains.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Buffalo yesterday became a city of mourners. The gay and flaming decorations of the Pan-American exposition gave way to the symbol of sorrow. The black drapery of the city's streets was so dense that it seemed to muffle the tolling bells of the churches. Bits of crape appeared on every sleeve. The sorrow was everywhere apparent.

In the morning a simple service took place at the residence in Delaware avenue where the martyred president died. A hymn was sung and prayer offered over the dead body. That was all. Only the immediate family and the friends and political associates of the late president were present. The scene there was pathetic in the extreme. Then the body was borne out to the waiting cortège on the brawny shoulders of eight sailors and soldiers of the republic. The cortège passed through solid walls of living humanity, bareheaded and grief-stricken, to the city hall, where the body lay in state. There a remarkable demonstration occurred, which proved how close the president was to the hearts of the people. Arrangements had been made to allow the public to view the body from the time it arrived, at about 1:30 o'clock, until about 5 o'clock. But the people were wedged into the streets for blocks. Two lines were formed. They extended literally for miles.

90,000 Persons See Body.
When 5 o'clock came, 40,000 persons had already passed, and the crowds waiting below in the streets seemed undiminished. It was decided to extend the time until midnight. Then for hours longer the streets were dense with people and a constant stream flowed up the steps of the broad entrance into the hall and passed the bier. When the doors were closed at midnight it was estimated that 90,000 persons had viewed the remains, but thousands of disappointed ones were still in the streets. The body lay in the city hall until this morning. It was taken to the station by a military escort at 8:30 o'clock. The funeral train, consisting of seven cars, started for Washington over the Pennsylvania railroad.

Mrs. McKinley, the president, the cabinet and relatives and friends of the dead president accompanied the body. Mrs. McKinley bore up bravely yesterday during the service at the Milburn residence, and Dr. Rixey, her physician, thinks she will be able to support her trying part in the state funeral at Washington.

The services at the Milburn house were deeply impressive. Senator Hanna, who had loved his dead friend for years, entered the room, but did not approach the coffin. His face was set like an iron-willed man who would not let down the barriers of his grief. The senator spoke to no one. His eyes were vacant. He passed through the throng and seated himself behind Governor Odell, sinking far down into his chair and resting his head upon his hand. During all the service that followed he did not stir. Just before 11 o'clock President Roosevelt entered, coming into the room from the rear through the library. After passing into the hall he had made his way

"Lead, Kindly Light" Sung.
The pastor was at the door leading into the hall, a station whence his words could be heard at the head of the stairs. The signal was given, and there welled out from the hall the beautiful words of "Lead, Kindly Light," sung by a quartet. It was President McKinley's favorite hymn. Every one within sound of the music knew it, and half of those in the room put their faces in their hands to hide their tears. Comptroller Dawes leaned against a bookcase and wept. President Roosevelt seemed to be away from it and as if his footing were insecure.

When the singing ended, the clergyman read from the words of the fifteenth chapter of the First Corinthians. All had risen as he began, and remained standing throughout the remainder of the services. Again the

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT

"By the President of the United States, a proclamation. A terrible bereavement has befallen our people. The President of the United States has been struck down: a crime committed not only against the chief magistrate, but against every law-abiding and liberty-loving citizen."

"President McKinley crowned a life of largest love for his fellow men; of most earnest endeavor for their welfare, by a death of Christian fortitude, and both the way in which he lived his life and the way in which, in the supreme hour of trial, he met his death, will remain forever a precious heritage of our people."

It is meet that we as a nation express our abiding love and reverence for his life, our deep sorrow for his untimely death.

"Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do appoint Thursday, next, September 19, the day on which the body of the dead President will be laid in its last earthly resting place, as a day of mourning and prayer throughout the United States. I earnestly recommend all the people to assemble on that day in their respective places of divine worship, there to bow down in submission to the will of Almighty God, and to pray out of full hearts their homage of love and reverence to the great and good President whose death has smitten the nation with bitter grief."

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed."

"Done at the City of Washington, the 14th day of September, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and One, and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and Twenty-sixth."

TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF PRESIDENT M'KINLEY

Beautiful and Impressive Memorial Services Held by the Janesville Pastors Yesterday, in Honor of Nation's Dead Hero and Christian Statesman.

DAY OF TEARS IN THE CITY CHURCHES

Ministers Talk of the Life and Achievements of the Late President—War on Anarchy Urged—Churches
Draped in Black—Large Congregations.

Yesterday a universal voice of eulogy of our beloved departed president, William McKinley, went up from all the pulpits in this fair land of America and from north to south and east to west worshippers of all denominations joined in reverencing the memory of the great man who has been called to a higher mission. In this city the day was most appropriately observed and the large congregations which assembled in all of the churches told eloquently of the personal loss which the people feel in this great national bereavement and of the keen sorrow which has touched not only the great throbbing heart of America but the heart of every loyal citizen of the republic. The churches were all handsomely draped in the national colors surrounded in the black and white, symbol of the nation's grief. Large pictures of the departed president draped with the emblem of his country and mourning formed the center of the beautiful decorations which loving hands had placed in his honor.

Union Services Thursday Evening
The evening service was the one decided upon by the pastors of the city as the memorial service, it being the plan to hold the union memorial service on the evening of next Thursday, the day on which the precious remains will be tenderly consigned to the last resting place. The pastors of all the churches found inspiration for their evening sermons in the life of William McKinley and each sermon was listened to by large and very attentive audiences. Especially fine music was rendered at all the churches and every congregation joined in singing "Nearer My God to Thee" that hymn which will ever be dearer to the American people because one of their martyrs went into rest eternal with its beautiful words on his lips.

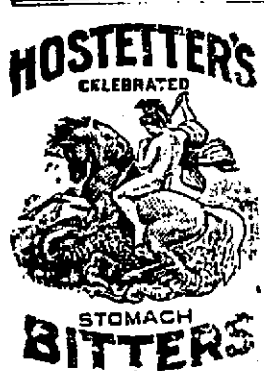

Rev. Mr. Denison's Sermon
At the Congregational church alone there was no evening service, the pastor having made arrangements which could not be broken to preach the semi-centennial anniversary sermon for the church at Fulton last evening. Consequently the memorial service at the Congregational church was held in the morning when the Rev. Robert C. Denison preached a most eloquent sermon on "Our Nation's Sorrow." Many who are accustomed to enjoy this pastor's ever helpful sermons united in the opinion that his eulogy of yesterday was indeed his masterpiece.

Rev. Denison compared the sorrow of the American nation with the grief of the people of Israel centuries ago over the death of Moses. It is our experience which interprets life for us. We do not realize another's sorrow until we have sorrowed ourselves. Three times as a nation we have watched over those whom God and our nation have chosen as leaders climb out of our sight through the valley of the shadow of death. Once again the tragedy of history repeats itself and he who is high in esteem goes out on the way which leads to the throne of God and across the ages the heart of America goes out to the heart of Israel and we understand their grief.

From the Atlantic to the vine-clad hills of California, from the humble hut of the lumberman to where the song of the negro comes up from the rice swamp, America mourns a departed leader. Israel mourned for Moses alone, no voice coming to them from other tribes. To us has come from every nation the quick voice of sympathy. Humanity moves upward and gets more and more the great heart of brotherly love.

Sorrow is Many Sided.
If the sorrows of men are the songs of heaven, then heaven rings today with anthems of welcome. Our sorrow is a many-sided one and is deepest because it seems that our institutions are inadequate to preserve the liberty of which we boast. We have opened our doors to all, we have fought for liberty, we have freed the slaves and protected the oppressed, yet there is nothing in our liberty to protect a great and good man in times of peace. We have staked everything on our liberty. Is it all to fall? Must we go back to tyranny to protect our president? No. In these trying times we must not lose faith in liberty. Though fearful the price it costs, we mission on his lips, he passed away.

A great career is ended. To us it may seem that the pyramid was without its keystone, that his life was cut off, uncompleted. But a higher wisdom teaches us that a life is complete which at the moment of translation is engaged in duty. If it is keeping step with God, true at each successive hour to the demands of the hour, then death ever finds a life complete. Human fidelity can do no more. The rest is with the Divine Providence, inexplicable today, known perhaps only in the distant tomorrow. His career was, therefore, complete. And as we see it for the first time in its entirety, we inquire its meaning. It proves the worth of American institutions. Great men are the product of the social and political order wherein they are cradled and wherein they toil. Men make institutions and institutions make men. And it is here, in the character of its representative men, that we find the measure of a nation's worth. "Are the men," asks Lecky, "who obtain the highest position in the nation, men whom in private life and irrespective of party competent judges speak with genuine respect? Are they of sincere convictions, consistent lives, indisputable integrity? It is by observing this moral current that you can best cast the horoscope of a nation." It is thus the career of William McKinley reveals and honors the republic. And the mold is not broken. The homes and schools and churches that made him will make other men of like type and power. There will not fail us great leaders so long as we conserve the sources of the national strength. His career also displays the personal elements which win success. He gained his high station through no accident of birth but by dint of noble character. This fact makes him an exemplar and an inspiration to coming generations. A fundamental virtue was industry. He had a genius for hard work. He had also courage. Though but a youth he volunteered in the Union cause and on many battlefields distinguished himself for gallantry. And when death at last came he met it serenely and fearlessly. His caution was complimentary to his courage and made him a trusted leader in crucial epochs in our recent history. His domestic virtue was most beautiful. There is no story of finer devotion than the story of his devotion to a wife who was a lifelong invalid. But the crowning glory of his character was his Christian piety. From his youth he was a faithful member of the church and follower of Christ. The final utterance came fittingly from his lips: "Thy will be done."

In its tragic close his career reveals the chief peril of the republic. That peril is lawlessness. This negation of the social bond has many expressions. One is the municipal misrule which makes statutes dead letters or instruments of blackmail. Another is the lynching spirit for whose exhibition in times of strong public feeling the whole land is guilty. The men who would thus dispose of the assassin are themselves in degree anarchists. They had best heed the words of the wounded president whose regard for due process of law overcame his personal pain. "Let no one hurt him." It is, however, in anarchy that lawlessness shows its most desperate aspect.

This viper we must crush. Measures both restrictive and educational are needful. Advocates of murder should be confined in asylums like other persons dangerous to society. And everywhere we must teach respect for law and establish the safeguards of religion. The lesson of history is plain. Republics are overthrown by license. Better the man on horseback than the man with the torch. If the death of our president spurs us to a higher devotion to law it will not be in vain.

AT THE FIRST M. E. CHURCH
Our National Sorrows—Lessons from Life of Wm. McKinley
First M. E. church.—The pastor, Rev. W. W. Woodside, took for his theme "Our National Sorrow. Great Lessons From the Life and Death of William McKinley."

To be chosen by the people to become the chief executive of the nation is the greatest earthly honor that can be bestowed upon any man. It is not surprising that many have aspirations along this line. It is a great distinction. Looking over the list of presidents from Washington to the present, I do not hesitate to say that in many respects Wm. McKinley ranks among the greatest. He was a brave soldier, a great statesman, and a prince among men. He has said: "Good-bye, good-bye all. God's will be done." A nation is in mourning and a wave of tenderness sweeps over us.

There has never been a question about his intellectual ability or his fitness for the high position he has occupied. May we not glean a few lessons from the life and death of this truly great man? One is this: The power of true love and the beauty of home life. We know of men who shine in society and who are honored but unkind and untrue in the home. How tender, kind and thoughtful he has been to his invalid wife all these years. Here we find evidence of greatness. He will be honored and loved by the womanhood of the world.

In the midst of our national grief may we not consider with profit the inner, spiritual, heart life of our president? Can there be a more eloquent eulogy than this? "He was a good man. Out of the abundance of the heart, the mouth speaketh." How beautiful these words. "Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done." "God forgive him." Only a great man can pray for and love an enemy.

I believe that after all out of this great sorrow and national calamity there will come blessings and victories. The conscience of the American people will become thoroughly aroused—yes, is aroused. It means the death blow to anarchism, and yet low journalism. There is no doubt in my mind but that the president of the United States lies cold in death, the victim of anarchism.

This affliction enters every home in the nation. We mourn as one family—but in the language of the martyred Garfield: "God reigns and the government at Washington lives."

UNION EPISCOPAL SERVICES

Parishes of Christ and Trinity Church
In Honor of McKinley

The parishes of Christ and Trinity churches held a union memorial service at Trinity church. Rev. J. A. M. Richey spoke beautifully of William McKinley's Christian character and referred most touchingly to the beauty of the memories which will ever cluster around the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee."

The altar lictorn and pulpit were draped with violet hangings, the color of mourning appropriate to kings and chief magistrates. The choral evening song preceded as usual, the burial chants being sung in place of the regular psalter. The rector of Trinity church conducted the service, while the Rev. A. H. Barrington read the lessons and preached.

The principal address of the evening was by Rev. A. H. Barrington, who chose as his subject, "The Guileless Man." In his introduction Rev. Barrington said that in his opinion all people should have gathered together yesterday without distinction of creed. He thought the mayor should issue a proclamation calling on all people to leave their work on the day of the funeral and gather together to listen to eulogies of the good man and faithful servant of the people.

Continuing Rev. Barrington referred to the loyal cry "the president is dead; long live the president." The blow of the assassin was aimed at the president not at the man and yet it was the man who was called to sacrifice himself upon the altar. The speaker gave a splendid synopsis of William McKinley's life referring to his service in the army and in congress, his devotion as a husband and the sincerity of his faith. He was a guileless man, pure in his personal life, honest in his dealings with others and loyal to his friends.

He was not an intellectual giant like Webster, nor a great leader of the people like Lincoln, but he will be given place beside Washington and Lincoln as the man whom God raised up to serve his country in a peculiar crisis. Washington, the great general, laid the foundations of this great government. Lincoln did more than all others to preserve inviolate the union of the nation. William McKinley guided the ship of state as it sailed forth to extend its protecting arm around the weak and oppressed. Not great in himself, he was great in what he accomplished and for this pure and upright man, the life he lived and the example he gave, the American people will thank God again and again.

A memorial service was also held at Christ church in the morning, the church being handsomely draped and purple hangings being used on the altar.

AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Two Sermons Eulogistic of the Late President McKinley

At the Presbyterian church eulogistic addresses were made both by Rev. J. C. Ables, of Chicago, and by Rev. J. T. Henderson. Rev. Ables spoke first saying that for the third time in the last thirty-six years the country has been visited by the loss of a loved president. The blow was so unexpected that it is a small wonder that the cry of lamentation which went up found an echo in the cry for vengeance. Now is the time for self-control, the time to test our confidence in our institutions, especially in our court of justice. The formative period of William McKinley's life was passed in the stirring times before the impress in his serious nature. His education was not of the head primarily, but of the heart. A great man intellectually, he was a greater man morally.

His life appeals to us in many ways. In his home he was all tenderness; he was firmly loyal to his friends; he was a soldier and a brave man but the best things in his life were his unselfishness and his faith in God. He was the greatest figure of the times. In this last week the people looked into the core of

Leffingwell's Liquors

ALL PURE

The proper place to purchase pure liquors is from the man who makes a specialty of them. You buy your coal from the coal dealer because you know that he knows all about coal. The same reasoning should apply to your whiskey, wines, beer, etc. Impure liquor for family or medicinal purposes is worse than none at all.

We wholesale and retail every kind of good liquor.

of getting glasses. One is to go to the nearest permanent located optician and get what you need, and a guarantee that they will be satisfactory, if not they will be exchanged free, or money back. The other is to let some traveling peddler sell you a pair and run the risk of ruining your eyesight entirely, and when he's got your money, you never see him again. TRIBUTE TO PRES. M'KINLEY his heart and found it pure and spotless. His last words have no parallel in history, save as we find them in Christ. The great lesson to be learned is that Christian manhood is the greatest achievement man can aspire to. William McKinley was a prince among men, the highest type of American manhood. He was a model man physically, mentally and morally. Though dead to us as a nation as long as history lasts he will be cherished as a noble statesman and a Christ like man.

Rev. J. T. Henderson said it was fitting that a stricken nation should gather in the house of God for there is no better place to seek for comfort. There is just one heart in America today and it is sore because God wanted William McKinley for a greater work and a higher purpose in the skies. We need faith in a time like this, trust in the God we believe in.

We find solace in the inspiring completeness of the life that has gone out. Its completeness as a husband, a statesman or a warrior. For the men who grace our roll of martyrdom God has chosen our three best men and the completeness of William McKinley's life will inspire generations yet unborn. Its very foundation was in its religious element and in death its characteristics stand out plainly. A man cannot live a reckless, Godless life and meet death as did our president. A man who is facing death shows the fundamental principles of his character and William McKinley's death was colored through and through with Christianity, the salvation of the nation.

Another comfort is found in the universal grief in his taking away. When Lincoln died the northern states alone followed him to the sepulchre but today all sections have been forever destroyed in a universal sorrow. We mourn a grand, patient, well-poised man. No other could have touched the heart of this whole nation to the core.

There are many lessons in this bereavement. When God looks for a sacrifice he looks for one without a blemish. If God were looking for a shaft to thrust to the heart of anarchy he could not have chosen a better one than this broad-minded, sympathetic, unoffending man who rose from the common people and did no wrong to his fellow men. Call it fate, accident or sacrifice, it is one of God's inscrutable ways.

A second lesson is that anarchy is close to the cold fountain of atheism. The two are strangely related. The man who says he will have no God will finally come to say that he will have no ruler and no law and the man who denies all earthly law will finally come to deny God's law. If anarchy is to be suppressed, the loyal citizens of America must support institutions that oppose atheism. It is interesting to trace William McKinley's lineage back through an ancestry which had an unbroken faith in God and which traces back to the covenants. His character was the result of wise training of the youth for generations and the spiritual genealogy of this grand man is one that any man might wish to have.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Andrew Mack in "Tom Moore" has become a Broadway favorite and is drawing capacity audiences to the Herald-Square Theater. The first Irish star to play on Broadway in years, and the first since Uper Broadway became the theatrical center, his success is very flattering both to him and his managers, Rich & Harris. Mr. Mack will remain at the Herald-Square theater for several weeks before he begins his tour of the principal cities.

The costumes to be worn in Paul Potter's new Boer comedy, in which Louis Mann and Clara Lipman are soon to open their season, are being made from photographs of seventy-six Boers, male and female, taken recently in the Transvaal. Mr. Mann's make-up for the role of Piet Prinsloo will be a composite study of Genl Joubert and Oom Paul Kruger. The upper portion of the face, representing the height of Boer intelligence, will be copied from Genl Joubert, while the determination and dogged persistence of Kruger will be depicted in the nose, mouth and chin.

Grace George will soon emerge from her retirement to commence rehearsals for her coming New York engagement. Her opening play has not been announced but it is said to be from the pen of a famous American author.

"Foxy" Grandpa, the new musical comedy, is having quite a stay in Buffalo. Efforts are being made to keep it there until November owing to its solid success. Joe Hart, who achieved fame with Helen & Hart, has made the hit of his life as the Foxy Grandparent.

Marriage in the profession is sometimes an unstable institution. In "Lovers' Lane," confesses that she has been married thirty-seven years and has had but one husband. Her thirty-seventh anniversary was made the occasion of a social celebration by the company in St. Paul early last week.

THE COUNTY ASSESSOR.

Beloit Should Have a Candidate Before the Board of Supervisors. At the next special meeting of the county board of supervisors there will be elected a county supervisor of assessments. This is a new office created by the legislature to equalize taxation of the county and state. It is an important office, although the law has fixed the rather mediocre pay of $3 per day for the compensation. But a competent man should be selected; on conversant with tax matters and skilled in placing values on farm and city property. Beloit can furnish such a man and if the supervisors from this city and adjacent towns will unite on a candidate, it is altogether likely that he can be elected. Beloit should certainly go to the meeting with a good candidate. Among the gentlemen suggested as available candidates are George Seegmiller, Shumway Conant, and F. F. Livermore. George Crosby of Turtle and Henry Nelson of Newark are also spoken of. Any of these gentlemen could fill the bill and there are others. It will be well for Beloit and the neighboring towns if they will get together on this matter.—Beloit Free Press.

READY TO FIGHT SULTAN.

Spain Concentrated to Enforce Ultimatum to Morocco.

Madrid, Sept. 16.—Prime Minister Sagasta said today that Spain would continue her determined attitude towards Morocco in the matter of the stealing of two children and the payment of the indemnity therefor.

Such action in regard to Morocco by any other power than Spain would arouse suspicion, but all the powers are giving Spain their moral support to back up the ultimatum which has been sent.

An army of 80,000 men is being concentrated.

Say Clerks Kept Money.

Brazil, Ind., Sept. 16.—Sult was entered today against ex-County Clerk Ira Holland and his bondsmen for $1,795, the amount which it is claimed he failed to turn over to the county treasurer when he retired from office. In 1896, Sult was also begun against Charles Mace, whose term as county clerk expired a year ago, and his bondsmen for $5,000, the amount it is alleged he failed to turn over to the treasurer.

Crazy Snake Is Released.

Guthrie, Ok., Sept. 16.—Crazy Snake, the Creek Indian who led the rebellion last spring against the government, has been released and is again inciting his people to rebellion. He claims to have come recently from Washington, where he ascertained tribal rights are restored to Indians. He is conducting sun dances and other such ceremonies in the interest of his cause and is keeping his tribe in a condition of unrest.

Actress Claims an Estate.

Marquette, Wis., Sept. 16.—Miss Adelle Lafave of Janesville, a soubrette with Fritz & Weber's A Breezy Time company, will lay claim to the estate left by John Lafave, a hermit who resided near Powers, Mich. and whose relatives can not be found. Miss Lafave claims that the hermit was her father and that he was separated from her mother years ago in Cleveland.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness results. This condition can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition. Hearing will be restored forever; no cases out of ten are caused by a disease of the ear itself, but an inflammation of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED

A Noted Physician Will Prove This to Sufferers in Janesville.

The astonishing statement that Asthma can be cured, coming from so well known authority as Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann, will be of interest to asthma sufferers. The experience of most Asthmatics has been that little if any relief has been afforded them by the methods heretofore employed, and, in fact, the disease has up to now been regarded as incurable. This noted physician has, however, after a life-long study of Asthma and kindred diseases, discovered a remedy which not only instantly relieves the severest cases of Asthma, Hay Fever and Bronchitis, but has actually cured thousands whose cases had been pronounced incurable. So complete is Dr. Schiffmann's confidence in his remedy that he requests this paper to announce that for the next three days, he offers a liberal sample box of "Schiffmann's Asthma Cure" free of charge to all persons applying at E. B. Heimstreet's Drug Store.

Dr. Schiffmann believes that an actual test will be the most convincing, and in fact the only way to overcome the natural prejudice of thousands of Asthmatics who have heretofore sought relief in vain. Persons living out of town will receive a package free by writing direct to Dr. R. Schiffmann, 370 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn., before Sept. 21st, and enclosing a 2c stamp.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST
Generally fair tonight and Tuesday.

THE NATION'S GRIEF.

Death is so common, that all over the world, in thousands of homes, are evidences of mourning and deep sorrow. One home is passed today, to be visited tomorrow, and none escapes.

But universal sorrow is rare. A man may be great in the financial world, and wield an influence that gains him widespread recognition. Another may be great in the world of art and letters, and another may be the leader of religious thought, but in all the various channels where men acquire fame and greatness, their taking away is never occasion for universal mourning, however much they may be missed, or important their work may have been. This is true because they fall to touch humanity at every point, and outside the channel of their individual work, are but little known.

With the life of a ruler, however, circumstances are different, and while but few of his subjects may enjoy the privilege of personal acquaintance, yet every one of them, however humble, share in the feeling that they knew him, and unconsciously personal interest centers around the man, until every home and every loyal heart appropriates him.

This is especially true concerning the president of this great republic. An office that does not bear the stamp of inheritance, and yet that confers the highest honor.

When Abraham Lincoln, "the rail splitter," was crowned by his countrymen, the common people realized that from the ranks of the masses, a man had been chosen, because of his great manhood, and to the day of his tragic death, he was " Honest Old Abe," representing the American people without regard to caste or circumstances, the highest ideal of statesmanship.

His death came to the homes of the nation, as a personal loss, because the people had learned to respect him as a leader, and to love him as a man.

Today the nation is again in sorrow, more universal than at the time of Lincoln's death, because sectional lines are obliterated. The man, McKinley, meant more to the people than simply a title bearer. While the office that he filled with such great honor, commanded respect and homage, the American people felt that back of the man was a heart that beat in sympathy with humanity, inspired by a love that won for him a place at every fireside, and made all hearts akin.

To his family and familiar friends who enjoyed the pleasure of close association, the loss will be most keenly felt, but in thousands of homes, scattered all over the land, the sense of personal loss comes as a sad experience, and genuine sorrow is evidenced on every hand.

It may truthfully be said of President McKinley that the world is better because of his life. The power of his life will continue to be felt for good, and its influence will last for many generations.

UNCLE SAM'S PURCHASE.

Although it has not been confirmed, yet the report is probably true that this government has finally prevailed upon the Danish ministry to sell three of the West Indies.

The price demanded for the property is ridiculous when we consider them simply as so much real estate. They have no commercial value to us, as they do not begin to pay the expense of their government; but with our new possessions and our new canal these three fine harbors in the path of every passing ship going east or west, north or south, would be a constant menace if owned by any other nation.

In case of war we would need these islands badly, and it would be foolish to haggle over the cost of property which might prove a place of safety to a fleet worth many times the price paid for the group.

By physical location all the islands of the West Indies are our natural outposts, which would prevent any danger from assault by any enemy that may arise.

How much would have been saved in time and money had these harbors been ours in the war with Spain? What would be our protection if an European power should attack us while building the canal?

All of these questions are answered by the possession of these three islands, St. Croix, St. Thomas and St. John.

St. John is the main entrepot of the Antilles, a port at which all commerce stops; on one of the great trade routes of the western hemisphere.

The white residents are accustomed to self-government, and undoubtedly will make good citizens, while the open markets of the United States will furnish demand for the sugar which is their principal product.

President McKinley is dead, but his memory and influence will linger as a rich benediction to bless humanity.

The nation will continue to progress and the policy of the departed president will be faithfully carried out.

Time blunts the keen edge of sorrow, and helps humanity to appreciate loss, and out of the dark clouds of bereavement may come a brighter day. President McKinley lived to a purpose, and the nation is rewarded for his work. The full measure of this reward time will determine, and it will not be disappointing.

The press of the country denounces anarchy, and offers all sorts of remedies for its expulsion from American soil. When the teachings of this infamous doctrine are silenced, a long stride will have been covered in the way of much needed reform.

Sympathy centers around the home that shared the love and thoughtful care of our fallen president. To the wife who enjoyed his tender solicitude, the nation says with a single voice, "May God comfort you."

The end of the Terrible Turk is at hand. Russia will seize him. Greece will be given suzerainty over him, or all Europe will fight over him. Whatever happens, the end will be the same to him.

Greatness and goodness are not always combined. President McKinley enjoyed both, in rare degree, and they won for him the heart of the American people.

A southern constituency refused to send an ex-convict to congress on the plea that they wanted him to have time to reform first.

The press opinions of southern papers place McKinley at the head as the best president of the whole United States we ever had.

American genius has found a quicker way of subduing the Filipinos; the introduction of the trolley car.

If Germany is aching for a fight with us, her aches will not stop by getting it.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE STREET.

When a man is a good hater he can always find fresh fuel to renew the fire.

No matter what happens you, it is impossible to improve matters by letting go your hold.

The man who offers to work cheaper than others may be said to appreciate his own value.

Those who trade their futures for the present usually have to pay usurious interest on the deal.

There are women, and men, too, who never seem quite so contented as when perfectly miserable.

The only time when it is both safe and popular to print personal anecdotes about people is after they are dead.—Milwaukee Journal.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Emma Goldman is not the only person who denounces those who have attained to financial or political success, but whose burdens may be as heavy as those of the poor. They who shoot with powder and ball are no more guilty than they who slay with venomous words.

Stoughton Courier: The tolls have tightened around Emma Goldman. If, as many believe, she planned and abetted the hellish deed which has laid the president at the door of death she will not be able to escape.

Beloit Free Press: Not long ago the leading yellow journal of the country published the following: "McKinley is a tyrant, reddening his hands in the blood of the poor and filling his pockets and those of others with dollars coiled out of the sweat and tears and hunger of helpless strikers, their wan wives and starving children."

How much more guilty is the assassin Czolgosz than the writer and publisher of the foregoing? In fact, is not the inciter to assassination the more guilty of the two?

Jefferson County Union: There are several small islands among the 1,700 that belong to Uncle Sam, over near China, that would support in comfort and plenty, all the anarchists in this country. We suggest getting the same apart for these murderous idiots; that each be furnished with enough dynamite to make things interesting for his fellows, and then let nature take its course.

Stoughton Hub: Banish anarchy forever from this fair land. Pull down their red flags, confiscate and destroy their literature, burn their printing offices, break up their public and private meeting places, and hang their priests and priestesses.

Better to commence at the root of the matter, and bar forever the teachings of anarchy.

Racine Journal: Tax Commissioner Haugen remains on deck with full liberty to assail vituperously self-respecting and able republican statesmen.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Emma Goldman is certainly a shrewd one. With an evident view to the effect on the general public she has furnished an interview in which she says that if she was not in jail she would be glad to nurse the president "as tenderly as any working man" if they would permit her to do so. Emma is evidently a clever actor as well as the high priestess of anarchy.

Watertown Times: We should think Governor La Follette would be pleased to have Lieutenant Governor Stone at Madison during his illness so as to look after the details of government. Mr. Murphy could act as private secretary for both officials. When Governor Scofield was indisposed or was outside the state there was a tactful understanding that Lieutenant Governor Stone should assume the reins of government.

Fond u Lac Reporter: Jere Murphy announces, as governor pro tem, that no call will be made upon the people of Wisconsin for their prayers for the recovery of President McKinley. Many of the governors of other states issued proclamations of this kind, and the order was generally observed. In Wisconsin the preachers and the church members—as well as men who never attend church service offered up a prayer that the life of the president might be spared—and for this reason it is possible that the "governor extraordinary" did not consider the call necessary.

LACE SHIRT WAISTS.

Are They Conducive to Health and the General Good?

Here are a man's and a woman's opinions on the matter. This being a woman's story, it will be courtesy to let the man speak first.

He says he is very doubtful in his mind about the propriety of the lace shirt waist that reveals the neck and arms beneath—that is to say, he is not a bit doubtful.

"Such men must be very weak headed creatures," objects the woman.

"That they are, I grant you," replied the man. "But you must take them as they are."

He also objects to the peephole lace waist because it interferes in an odd way with his right to fresh air. He went to Asbury Park lately for a day or two. He desired all the glorious sea oxygen he could take in, for his splendid lungs are large. Daytimes it was well, for he was out where ocean, air and sunshine pour their mingled blessings into man. Evenings he sat in the public rooms of the hotel with the rest. But he still wanted what he came for, the electric sea oxygen. Then it was however, the lace shirt waist girl demanded that the windows should be shut so she could be warm enough and at the same time look pretty. Talk of the wrongs of woman!

At home the man takes the front seat of the open trolley car to get the fresh morning zephyr. Again comes the lace shirt waist girl, on her way to her office, too, and orders that the front screens be closed.

The woman likes to see the lace waist. She thinks nothing is more beautiful than the perfect human skin as God made it and that as an aesthetic spectacle young women never look lovelier than when their pretty necks and arms gleam through filmy lace. The girls look as sweet as infants. All the evil there can be in connection with it is in evil imaginations.

Moreover, modesty, not to say morality, is a matter of education and custom. In Japan and in the tropics, everywhere the traveler becomes so accustomed to see the natives skipping about nearly naked that he at length notices it not half so much as he would at home notice a white lady without a choker, high collar on. The white lady herself, when she lives in the tropics, comes to feel properly in a lawn Mother Hubbard, and no stockings. Modesty, like beauty, is in the mind of the beholder.

In Paris, artistically the most slightly city of the earth, on every side meet the eye nude statues and groups of statues of such exquisite proportions and modeling that any thought of immodesty is quite lost in the contemplation of their beauty.

In brief the woman thinks there is nothing unseemly in pretty arms and shoulders showing through lace. If, on the other hand, they are not pretty, then to show them is very immodest indeed.

SUSAN PEPPER.

The qualifying round for the Valentine medal will be played Tuesday afternoon over the links of the Mississippi golf club. It is hoped that all the lady members will take part in the contest.

BACHMAN COMPANY AT MYERS GRAND

An Enormous Advance Sale of Seats for the Opening Attraction "Wife For Wife" Tonight

An enormous advance sale for tonight's performance at the Myers Grand indicates that standing room will be sold and that the Bachman Comedy company will play to a packed house. The company comes to this city strongly endorsed by approval wherever it has played, being said to be one of the very best repertoire companies on the road and superior to many high priced companies.

The week of repertoire promises to give the theatre goers of this city opportunity to see several of the best dramas and comedies on the stage. The company carries its own scenery and handsome costumes and presents the plays in a first-class manner. There are no awkward waits between acts as the time used by the stage hands in changing the scenery is enjoyed by the audience in listening to clever specialties by high grade vaudeville artists. Tonight the opening attraction of the week will be "Wife for Wife." Ladies free when accompanied by a person holding a thirty-cent paid ticket.

MOURNING IN NEW YORK

The City Almost Buried Under Black Crape and National Colors

New York, Sept. 16.—The draping of public buildings, banks and business houses in the financial districts business-houses in Broadway and hotels and theatres has been going on all day. By this evening commercial and financial New York will present an appearance commensurate with the event which is the sorrow of the nation.

The City Hall is the most conspicuous building in the downtown section. A special appropriation was made for the purpose of artistic work suitable for the purpose. The three landmark churches in Broadway—Trinity, St. Paul's and Grace—are conspicuous by the grouping of flags intertwined with crape. Wall street will be buried in black and the national colors.

In the residence districts flags bordered with black hang at half mast. In many of the homes occupied by English and French the displays consist of a blending of the flags of the two nations with American flags and black.

Sorrow of Senator Hanna Buffalo, Sept. 16.—Wherever Senator Hanna has gone today he has aroused the utmost sympathy. He has presented a most pathetic figure bowed and almost broken, with a face that seldom smiles, he appears to have added ten years to his age in two days.

How deep a blow the death of his lifelong friend has been to him no one will ever know. His friends and especially his family are anxious about him. It is feared that the shock of the president's death and the strain under which the senator is now laboring may have a serious result.

Eulogy of Geronimo Buffalo, Sept. 16.—Many flowers were sent to the Millburn house yesterday. Among them was a large wreath of purple asters, with a card on which was written:

"Farewell to Chief Geronimo, Blue Horse, Flat Iron and Red Shirt and the 700 braves of the Indian congress. Like Lincoln and Garfield, President McKinley never abused authority except on the side of mercy. The martyred Great White Chief will stand in memory next to the Savior of mankind. We loved him living, we love him still."

"The rainbow of hope is out of the sky. Heavy clouds hang about us. Tears wet the ground of the tepees. The chief of the nation is dead. Farewell."

Death Mask is Made

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—A death mask of the president's face was made yesterday by Edward L. A. Pausch, of Hartford, Conn. Pausch has modeled the features of many of the distinguished men who have died in this country in recent years. The mask is a faithful reproduction of the late president.

Cleveland to Attend Funeral. Washington, Sept. 16.—Formerly Grover Cleveland will come to Washington to pay a last tribute of respect to the man who succeeded him as president of the United States. Acting Secretary of War Sanger received a telegram from Mr. Cleveland today announcing that it was his wish to attend the funeral of President McKinley.

No Servants Not a Calamity.

A worse thing might happen even to Chicago than a successful hired girls' union. In that Russian city on the Amur river, where last year the enthusiastic citizens drowned all the Chinese residents, the great multitude of the drowned included all the house servants of the place. They were all Chinese. Into the river they went but no more Chinese servants came to take their places, and the householders in that city have made their own beds and cooked their own dinners.—Harper's Weekly.

MEMORIAL DAY ON THURSDAY NEXT

DAY OF MOURNING FOR MCKINLEY BY JANESVILLE PEOPLE.

Public and Private Buildings Will Be Elaborately Draped in the National Colors, Shrouded in Black and White—Public Memorial Meetings for Thursday Afternoon Suggested

Next Thursday, the day of President McKinley's funeral will be observed as a day of profound mourning in this city. Already the streets of the city betoken the spirit of grief which lies heavy on every American heart and the draping of places of business, the flags at half mast on public and private buildings and dwelling houses, give outward evidence of the great sorrow which has bowed low this great nation.

The post office is elaborately draped in the national colors shrouded in black and white and the stately folds of our national emblem mingle with the solemn drapery of mourning on the front of both fire stations, the decorations of both of these buildings being very elaborate. Appropriate memorial windows with the picture of the fallen chief in the center of a drapery of the national colors and the badge of mourning have been arranged in many of the stores and the number is increasing.

Chief Spencer has made an attractive display of drapery on the West Side engine house that is a credit to his taste and ingenuity. Mayor Victor P. Richardson has issued a proclamation which is published elsewhere in The Gazette, in which he requests all places of business and all public offices to close at noon on Thursday, the day of the funeral. He had also appointed a committee to make any arrangements for the further observance of the day which the members of the committee may deem proper. A public memorial meeting has been suggested but the committee has done nothing definite as yet.

There will be a meeting of the school board this evening and it will doubtless be decided to close the schools, especially if a public meeting is held. The Baptist church has postponed their annual church day celebration, which was to have been held next Thursday, for one week on account of the shade of sorrow which rests upon the community and the nation. The Presbyterian church has also postponed their fellowship social from tomorrow night until next week Tuesday, out of the same feeling of honor and respect. Instead of the customary Thursday evening prayer meetings the churches of the city will unite in a memorial service to be held at the Congregational church.

Manager P. L. Myers and the manager of the Backman Comedy company have decided that there shall be no dramatic attraction at the Myers Grand on Thursday evening and the local playhouse will be closed.

CROSSING FIGHT IS NEARLY ENDED

The Council is Likely To Give St. Paul Co. Permission Tonight To Cross Prospect Avenue

The highway committee of the common council had a meeting this afternoon for the purpose of considering the question of allowing the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad to cross Prospect avenue with their tracks for their new freight depot.

W. A. Jackson, attorney of the road has been busy for the last few days circulating a petition to allow the road to cross the street with its tracks and allow them to complete their new freight station.

Mr. Jackson was quite successful in getting the names of almost all the business men on the street signed to the petition which will be presented to the committee at its meeting this afternoon and considered by them.

They will make a report at the council meeting this evening in regard to the matter and their decision will govern what will be done about the street in the future.

It is expected that their report will be favorable to the railroad company and that they will be allowed to cross the street with their tracks on a level with the established grade of the street. If a favorable decision is reached in this matter the work of finishing up the new freight station will be taken up at once and rushed to completion before the cold weather sets in.

CONDUCTOR ASTRUP HERE

Consults W. F. Hayes, The Eye Specialist With F. C. Cook & Co.

A. C. Astrup, a well-known passenger conductor on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad and whose home is in Harvard, Ill., made a visit to this city for the purpose of consulting W. F. Hayes, the optician with F. C. Cook & Co. Conductor Astrup has had much difficulty in securing properly fitted glasses but his trip here was very satisfactory in every detail. Mr. Hayes not only adjusted glasses that gave Conductor Astrup relief but his eyesight was never more perfect. He is now able to see at a greater distance and with clearness. During the past month, numerous railroad men have made trips here to consult Mr. Hayes which is convincing proof that his excellent work as an eye specialist is being appreciated.

The race will be the best two out of three heats.

COURT STREET CHURCH DRAPED

Sermon on Our Departed President and Anarchy by Rev. Hall

No church was more handsomely draped in honor of the departed president yesterday than the Court Street M. E. church, a fine picture of the deceased leader resting against a background of black drapery, the intense gloom being relieved by narrow bands of white. Flags also formed a conspicuous part of the decorations.

At the evening service Rev. Walter A. Hall preached a most thoughtful and stirring sermon on "Our Departed President and Anarchy."

Telephone Man in Town

F. W. Coon and Henry I. Sloan of Edgerton, H. A. Molenph of Clinton, J. C. Murdock of Brodhead and Mr. Swinney of Monroe, the reorganization committee of the Badger Telephone company met in this city this morning and went to Evansville, Wis., to examine into the affairs of the company with a view of reorganizing it and putting it on a paying basis.

The next meeting of the company will be held on October 11 in this city. Heretofore the company has had its offices in Milwaukee. The next meeting will be held in this city. A majority of the men that have stock in this company are not satisfied with the management of affairs and think it ought to be nearer where the majority of the stockholders reside.

Tailor Made Suits

We are making lower prices on good suits than any other house in Janesville. Another thing, and an important one, we have more good suits to offer. Comparing new fall styles with late spring suits the difference is not great, and women can buy our suits at figures in many instances less than half price and be the possessors of a good substantial stylish costume. This suit matter is certainly worth looking into.

Camp Meetings

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will hold camp meetings on the farm of O. N. Dutton, five miles north of the city of Janesville, beginning September 21 and lasting until the 30th. You are invited to attend. W. A. McDowell.

For Decorating

Reports say that the red, white and blue bunting and cheap black goods suitable for decorating purposes have been largely bought up in both New York and Chicago. We can supply any demand for materials with which to drape stores or houses in honor of the late President. Also, have silk flags and large and small cotton flags.

THOS. F. DERMODY FREED BY DEATH

THE END CAME PEACEFULLY EARLY THIS MORNING.

Funeral Will Be Held Wednesday Morning—Death of Jackson J. Kendall, a Pioneer Resident of the Town of Hanover—Thos. W. Hall Passes Away.

After eight months of lingering illness the weary soul of Thomas F. Dermody was freed by death from the wasted body this morning at 5:15 o'clock. The end came peacefully and without warning. The messenger came while he slept and this earthly sleep was merged into the everlasting one.

Deceased was born in Newark, Wis., and was forty-one years of age. For the past twelve years this city has been his home and his genial, kindly nature won him the warm friendship of all who knew him. On the twenty-sixth of last November he was united in marriage with Miss Lydia Collins of this city, the marriage being the happy culmination of a long and joyous courtship. Six weeks later he was taken sick with hemorrhages and from that time until his death he steadily wasted away, his disease baffling the skill of the physicians. Cheerfully and patiently he bore his illness, knowing that death was fast approaching, but never complaining. He found great comfort in the constant presence of his wife, who suffered no one else to care for him, and their last day together was lived bravely and happily by both. He was never confined to his bed and the end came very suddenly.

Deceased leaves, besides a devoted wife, a father, John Dermody, and two brothers, Edward of this city and John, whose whereabouts is unknown. The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's church, although the hour has not been definitely settled upon. At the request of the deceased, his remains will be laid at rest in Rockford by the side of his mother.

Jackson J. Kendall

Jackson J. Kendall, a pioneer resident of Hanover, died Saturday afternoon at 5:20 o'clock in a hospital at Brodhead, his death being the result of a surgical operation. He was 67 years 10 months and 17 days old and belonged to that army of heroes whom a grateful nation honors for service rendered in the civil war. He enlisted in Co. F, 13th Wisconsin Volunteers and served in '64 and '65.

Deceased leaves one son, A. J. Kendall of Afton, and three daughters, Mrs. O. J. Kendall, of Oregon; Mrs. Dan Lynch of Quincy, Mich., and Mrs. F. B. Child of Hanover. Funeral services will be held on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the Trinity church at Hanover. Rev. J. O. Kan of Footville will officiate.

Thomas W. Hall

Charles H. Gage has just received the sad news of the death of his grandfather, Thomas W. Hall, at his home, Hall's Corners, N. L. He was 88 years of age. Deceased was one of the prominent farmers of New York State, Light Horse Artillery, prominent in the days of the militia and on "training day." He was the son of Edward Hall, who coming to New York from England in 1801, founded the village which still bears his name.

Isaac Parker Dead

Isaac Parker, brother of Mrs. John W. Carpenter of this city, and Miss Mathilda Parker, died at his home in Chicago on Friday afternoon at six o'clock after an illness of two years' duration with diabetes. Mr. Parker formerly resided in this city where he was a prominent business man, being in partnership with the late Guy Carter in the livery business. He was 63 years of age last August and was a loyal member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Col. John Nicholson Funeral

The funeral of the late Col. John Nicholson of Monroe, was held from the home of his son, F. F. Nicholson, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The services were largely attended, many being unable to gain admission to the house. Besides many friends of the sorrowing family, the members of W. H. Sargent Post, No. 29, G. A. R., were present to pay a last tribute to the memory of the comrade who lay in the flag-draped and flower-laden casket.

The interment was in Oak Hill cemetery, the pall bearers being chosen from the Grand Army. They were S. C. Burnham, Martin Halverson, J. L. Bear, Charles Vincy, Mr. Fisher and Mr. Reeder.

LOWER FLOOR FELL INTO THE RIVER

An Unfortunate Accident in the Jeffris Company Planing Mill

Early This Morning

The lower floor in the rear of the old Shopbell and Norris planing mill, now owned by the Jeffris company collapsed this morning about nine o'clock letting the load into the river. The floor was very solid there being no girders under it. A carload of hewn lumber was piled on the floor, which was strong enough to hold it. The loss to the Jeffris company will be nominal. Some of the lumber floated down the river but was recovered. When the floor collapsed it sounded like an explosion.

The young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon was well attended. A. E. Matheson, delivered an able address on Lessons of the Hour as suggested by President McKinley. Splendid music was furnished by the male quartet.

TUCKER LET HIS OPTIONS EXPIRE

Some Troubles for the Burr Springs Lythia Company in Regard to Their Options

The Burr Springs Lythia company are having a little trouble in regard to their option on the Spring property.

Mr. Tucker took an option on the property for ninety days on June 13th. He never thought ninety days did not mean three months and let his option expire. When he tried to get an extension of the option Mrs. Burr would do nothing until M. G. Jeffris returned home. She also asked that they furnish her with a copy of the plans of the company and a stock list in order to assure her that the company would carry out its part of the plan.

Mrs. Burr met Mr. Tucker and some other promoters today in Milwaukee, and received a copy of the plans and a stock list and will fix up the extension of the option.

MASTER JOHN AIRIS

Picture of the Brave Boy Who Saved Three People From Drowning In Rock River

The Gazette is pleased to publish a picture of Master John Airis by whose bravery Rock River was recently robbed of three victims and to whom Mrs. Frank Peters, Miss Pearl Peters and Miss Fanny Little owe their lives. Master Airis, who is only thirteen years of age, is a slender slip of a boy and is rather small for his age. Those who know him find additional reason in this fact for amazement at his deed of heroism.

Mrs. Peters and Miss Pearl are both much larger than their youthful rescuer and the fact that he was able to save them seems almost incredible. He is very shy over the entire affair and when spoken to about it is very much embarrassed and makes light of it, escaping as quickly as possible from anyone who tries to talk to him about his experience or to praise him for his bravery.

It is said that Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Little and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peters are planning to give Master Airis a gold medal for his heroism. Certainly no act of heroism was ever more deserving of fitting recognition and all admirers of bravery will be pleased to know that such courage as that exhibited by Master Airis is not to be permitted to pass unnoticed. He was the guest of honor at a delightful children's party given a few evenings ago by Mr. and Mrs. Peters.

Voices rose with the words of "Nearer, My God, to Thee," the very words President McKinley had repeated at intervals of consciousness during the day of agony before he died. As the music died away the pastor spoke again.

"Let us pray," he said, and every head fell upon its breast.

WIDOW IS UNNERVED.

Burden of Her Great Grief Overcomes Mrs. McKinley.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—Mrs. McKinley has broken down. Grave fears are expressed concerning her. She was yesterday in a state of hysterical collapse. There are grave fears that Mrs. McKinley will not be able to endure the ordeal of the next four days.

Mrs. McKinley an Invalid.

Mrs. McKinley is an invalid, a fact which has not been concealed. One of the effects of her illness is to render her nature at most times mild and tractable. Operating on so inherently superior a woman as Mrs. McKinley it has robbed her of sentience without removing the expressions of sentiment. She has retained her sweetness and tenderness without being subject to a woman's injuries from grief. Dr. Rixey, Dr. Park and Dr. Wasdin examined her carefully on Friday afternoon and again in the evening before she was admitted to the President's room. She was told that there was absolutely no hope and that her visit to his bedside would be the last in all probability.

Last Meeting With Husband.

A pathetic light came into her eyes. Her grief was like the wide-eyed grief of a child who is afraid to cry. She was led in by Miss Hunt and Dr. Rixey and given a place on the side of the bed, where she fondled the dying President's hand. This was shortly before 8 o'clock. For a while they were left alone together and in that interval he spoke briefly to her and she answered. She was speaking when the doctors re-entered. What was said to her in that period and what her answers were are secrets that perchance may never be revealed. She sat in the same place at the time he spoke his last words to her and was there at 9:30 when the curtains of his mind were drawn down, the light of intelligence extinguished and only the animating spark flickered in the fitful gusts of the breath of death for hours as the passing drew near.

Led Away With a Kiss.

As soon as it was seen that the President was unconscious, Mrs.

McKinley and Dr. Stockton released her clasp of the President's hand with infinite tenderness and supported her while she bent over him and left the last kiss on his lips ere life from them floated out and then they led her away. She was taken to her room, a sleeping powder given her and she was soon resting. It was after 3 o'clock that Dr. Rixey, accompanied by her sister, went to her and awakened her. She was told that the President had died, and her answer was a deep sigh and the words "Poor boy, poor boy."

GEORGE B. CORTELYOU

George B. Cortelyou, secretary to the late President McKinley, has been a heroic figure during the past week in his care for the wounded statesman. He is one of the most popular subofficials of Washington among the newspaper men. Mr. Cortelyou is 39 years old and was appointed chief clerk of the executive by President Cleveland. He has been in the White House since 1895, although connected with the government since 1889. He is a New Yorker by birth and fitted himself early in life for a musical career. Subsequently a change in his intentions led him to take up commercial correspondence, and from that he passed on to political life. President McKinley highly esteemed Mr. Cortelyou and it is said contemplated making him a cabinet officer in time.

Brandy Compartment in Prayer-book.

A prayer-book was recently lost by an elegantly dressed lady in a Berlin confectioner's, and found—to the disgust of the loser. The book had three compartments—one for prayers, one for sweets and one for brandy.

Professional Bee-Hunters.

There are a large number of professional "bee-hunters" in the west and southwest of Texas. Small caves and dark recesses formed by shelving rock abound along the waterways of the Texan rivers. They are the natural hives of the wild bees, and take the place of the hollow tree trunks of the forest regions of the northern country. These caves are used year after year by bees, and in many instances they have been found to be literally filled with honey.

Hatching Canary Birds' Eggs.

To assure the hatching of canary birds' eggs more nearly at one time the first eggs are sometimes taken away by the fanciers and replaced by artificial ones, all being put back in the nest when the bird ceases to lay. While she is sitting the prospective father lives up to his responsibilities, and devotes his time to seeing that his mate does her duty, and when she leaves her nest, if she shows an inclination to daily, sharp pecks drive her back.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Concerning Marriage.

A little girl in Ireland was asked what was the sacrament of matrimony. She said: "It's a state of torment into which souls enter to prepare them for another and a better world." "That," said the curate, "is purgatory. Put her down to the bottom of the class." "Leave her alone," said the parish priest. "For anything you or I know to the contrary, she may be perfectly right."—Selected.

Strike on Southern Docks.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 16.—The strike of longshoremen is general today. The men of the Harrison line were dissuaded from continuing work this morning after they had started. Four stevedores have signed the increased tariff demands made by white and colored unions and are permitted to work as union hands.
